

On May 9th 2006 the Year 10 Geographers spent a day on the East Sussex coast to consolidate work done in class and gain some ideas for their GCSE coursework. The girls examined the site and situation of Rye, asking questionnaires to determine its sphere of influence and importance as a tourist attraction. They also investigated coastal processes operating along Winchelsea Beach.

Asking questionnaires

Completing land use maps

Measuring beach profile

Recording pebble data

---