

CHRISTIAN LINDBERG

JAGS Wonderbrass and world premier virtuoso trombonist, Christian Lindberg, performing together! Not a sentence you might expect to read, but it is true! In a stunning display of initiative, JAGS brass teacher Steve Thompson, has arranged for JAGS Wonderbrass to play at Eltham College, where he also teaches, and to listen to a solo recital by Lindberg on Friday 6 March.

"Next time this marvel is in town, don't stay away!" This is what the London Times wrote when Christian Lindberg played at the Barbican. Christian Lindberg has been filling huge halls all over the world with his highly entertaining, substantial and visually exciting recital programmes.

The mastery of his trombone is perfection. To see Lindberg is a complete spectacle. Lucky girls. It will be an inspiration for them to see and to hear Christian Lindberg, voted the brass player of the millennium along with Louis Armstrong. Thanks to Steve Thompson for turning a dream into reality.
